NOTICE OF A CLAIM

IMPORTANT: To Lonza Biologics Plc

Mr r minhas has made an Employment Tribunal claim against you. A copy of the claim form is enclosed.

There is more information about responding to a claim here:

www.gov.uk/government/publications/responding-to-a-claim-to-an-employment-tribunal-t422

If you do not have access to the internet, you can ask the Tribunal office dealing with the claim for a paper copy.

If you want to defend it, you must complete the response form and submit it to the Employment Tribunal by one of the methods below.

It must be received by the Tribunal Office by 18 February 2026. If it is not, a Judgment may be issued against you.

Please read this notice carefully.

How to respond to the claim

Details are set out in the Presidential Practice Direction on Presentation of Claims, Responses and Statutory Appeals to the Employment Tribunals (England and Wales) which you can find at this link:

Practice Direction \(England & Wales\) – Presentation of Claims, Responses and Statutory Appeals \(PDF\) \(16 April 2025\)

In summary the methods of presenting a response form are as follows:

1. By online submission: To complete the response online, go to www.gov.uk/being-taken-to-employment-tribunal-by-employee and complete the online form via the link in the section headed “Respond to a claim”.
2. By Post: You must use the Tribunal’s response form. You can print out a blank response form from the link for online submissions above or ask us to send you a copy. Once you have filled in the form send it by post to Employment Tribunal Central Office, PO Box 11225, Loughborough, LE11 9PX.
3. By Hand: You must use the Tribunal’s response form. You can print out a blank response form from the link for online submissions above or ask us to send you a copy. Once you have filled in the form you can deliver it by hand to any Employment Tribunal office set out in the Schedule to the Practice Direction.

Where there is a fault with the online submission service method four is available:

4. By email to etsubmission-engwal@justice.gov.uk. A claim or response presented by email will not have been validly presented unless accompanied by a screenshot of the error message generated by the online submission service confirming a system malfunction at the relevant time.

Asking for More Time to Respond

You can apply for more time to submit your response. Any application must comply with rule 21 of the Employment Tribunal Procedure Rules. An Employment Judge will decide whether or not to allow you more time.

Useful information for claimants and respondents
