Dear Rehan,

Re: Outcome of Probation Dismissal Appeal Hearing

Thank you for attending the appeal hearing on 4 February 2026, chaired by Tanya Jenkins, Operations Director, with Sonia Dhir, Associate HR Director who was present as HR representative and note taker. The purpose of the hearing was to review the decision communicated to you on 21 January 2026, confirming the termination of your employment following the completion of your extended probationary period.

You outlined five grounds for appeal (a–e), which were fully explored during the hearing. Since then, we have undertaken further investigation, including:

- Reviewing DSP schedules (DSP Q3–Q4)
- Reviewing access logs and 121 notes from your line manager
- Obtaining further information from the trainer regarding new-starter training expectations
- Reviewing OH referral dates and recommendations
- Reviewing the sequence of events relating to your protected disclosure

After careful consideration, I can now confirm the outcome of your appeal.

Following a comprehensive review of all evidence, I have concluded that the original decision to end your employment during probation was reasonable, proportionate and reached in line with policy. Therefore, the dismissal stands.

The rationale for this decision is outlined in detail below.

1. Review of Your Appeal Grounds

a) Misapplication of Probationary Objectives / Fair Opportunity to Meet Targets

You stated that operational barriers (equipment failures, scheduling issues, annual leave and absence related restrictions) prevented you from completing the final steps of required training.

- Review of the DSP training schedule for Q3 and Q4 confirms multiple available opportunities for you to complete the final steps of the three required activities (AKTA set-up, IPF and Prep & Scheduling), in addition to instances you cited where sessions were cancelled.
- There is no evidence that operational conditions prevented you from taking these opportunities. Your own comments referenced wanting to take time, be cautious and pay attention to detail, which prolonged progression.

- Our investigation concluded three activities outstanding, occur multiple times per week and are typically completed through on the job learning and on shift.

A fair opportunity was provided. The evidence clearly demonstrates that the required training could reasonably have been completed within the probation and extended-probation timeframe. The appeal on this ground is not upheld.

b) Alleged Inaccuracies in Punctuality and Break Concerns

You stated that access logs did not reflect true arrival times, that minor lateness was justified and that breaks were aligned with supervisor direction.

- Access logs and your managers 121 notes confirm multiple occasions of late arrival, extended breaks and periods off plant beyond what would be considered reasonable.
- These concerns were explicitly raised with you in 121 meetings prior to the probation review.
- Whilst we acknowledge your explanation regarding break patterns, the records substantiate concerns about punctuality and break patterns. Furthermore, the Occupational Health review (Nov 2025) confirmed no adjustments were required for additional breaks.

The appeal on this ground is not upheld.

c) Procedural Impropriety / Inconsistent Treatment (Early Departure)

You stated that early departure concerns were unfairly applied and that you remained on site until the end of shift on several occasions, but did not return to plant due to gowning time.

- The 121 notes and access logs confirm that early-departure concerns were raised directly with you.
- Your explanation about using the toilet at 17:30 and not returning to plant was considered
- The situation was not handled as disciplinary action but as part of your performance and attendance review during probation, which is consistent with company practice.

The appeal on this ground also connected with (b) is not upheld.

d) Failure to Consider Health and Reasonable Adjustments

You stated that your health concerns were not taken into account and no OH referral or adjustments were made.

- You were referred to Occupational Health on the 16 October 2025 for a face-to-face, on 13 November 2025.
- On 13 November OH recommended completing a Stress Risk Assessment and Wellness Action Plan, both of which were completed by 8 January 2026, as confirmed in the signed documents and your line manager's 121 notes.
- No recommendations were made by OH regarding adjustments to break frequency or duration as the issue was no longer occurring.

- Your line manager did implement noise defenders, as offered and recorded the agreed actions.

Your health was considered, and appropriate steps were taken in accordance with OH advice. No evidence supports that further adjustments were required or requested and not implemented. This ground is not upheld.

e) Detriment Following a Protected Disclosure (Whistleblowing)

You stated that your patient safety concern on the 28 October and 13 November 2025 influenced the decision to dismiss you.

- The Ethics & Compliance response to your concern was issued on 27 November 2025. There is no evidence linking your disclosure to the probation decision.
- Your probation had been extended in September 2025 and concerns regarding punctuality, breaks and training progression were raised before your disclosure.
- The timeline does not demonstrate a detriment as a result of raising a disclosure.

No evidence supports detriment arising from your protected disclosure. This ground is not upheld.

2. Follow-up on Your Patient Safety Query

You submitted two reports, both of which were reviewed by HR, Ethics & Compliance and the relevant Quality and Regulatory subject matter experts. Your second report was submitted on 13 November 2025, the investigation outcome was provided on 27 November 2025 and further clarification was given following your additional questions on 27 November, 15 December 2025 and 12/13 January 2026. At each stage of this process, your concerns were carefully assessed and found not to fall within Lonza's remit, with no evidence of wrongdoing or non-compliance identified. Although further explanations were provided in response to your follow up queries, the overall conclusion remained unchanged and the case was formally closed in line with internal policy. All aspects of the query were handled appropriately, transparently and fully in line with company policies and procedures.

After full and careful review, your appeal is not upheld. The original decision to terminate your employment following the completion of your extended probation remains in place.

This decision is final and there is no further right of internal appeal.

I would like to thank you again for your engagement throughout the process and wish you the best in your future endeavours.

Yours sincerely

Tanya Jenkins

Operations Director

Appendix 1

A member of the Ethics & Compliance team provided a response on 23 January 2026, which will be reshared as originally communicated. It is likely that you did not receive the original message because it was sent to your Lonza email account after you had left the organization.

Dear Rehan,

Thank you for proactively raising your concerns, perspectives on long term safety surveillance, and for the depth of thought and effort reflected in your submission. Your awareness of emerging safety considerations and your willingness to flag them internally are highly appreciated and align with Lonza's commitment to responsible innovation and patient safety.

We would like to acknowledge and appreciate the broader strategic perspective you have offered. Your suggestion that enhanced long term safety and monitoring capabilities could represent a potential competitive differentiation for Lonza is noted and may be of interest for future discussion at a business or innovation level. While not a compliance requirement, such ideas can be valuable as the industry and regulatory landscape continue to evolve.

Should you wish to develop this concept further, we would be pleased to help connect you with colleagues in Commercial Development and R&D to explore whether there is a viable business case aligned with Lonza's strategy and capabilities. They would be best positioned to assess the opportunity, scope, and feasibility of any potential service offering in this space. In case you have further regulatory questions, you may contact the Regulatory Affairs team through CoLab (Regulatory Affairs) or directly engage Senior Director, Regulatory Affairs, Integrated Biologics, Slough, who is appropriately positioned to support with regulatory scope queries.

Please see the footnote below, which includes additional context from Lonza's regulatory experts that may be helpful as you further shape and position any proposal in this area.

Thank you again for your dedication to patient safety, quality and regulatory compliance.

Footnote – Regulatory and Scope Context

Your report, including provided scientific evidence, was received, reviewed, and assessed, including input from appropriate subject matter experts. Based on this assessment, there is no evidence to substantiate non compliant practices by Lonza. Lonza operates globally as a Contract Development and Manufacturing Organization (CDMO) and performs development and manufacturing activities in accordance with applicable regulatory requirements, Lonza's Quality Management System (QMS), and the roles and responsibilities defined in the relevant Quality Agreements with our customers.

Regulatory ownership of marketing authorizations, including pharmacovigilance, long term clinical follow up, and other post approval safety activities, resides with the applicable Marketing Authorization Holder (or equivalent product owner). Several of the matters raised in your report relate to safety surveillance, clinical trial design, and post launch risk monitoring that fall outside Lonza's responsibilities and scope of services as a CDMO. On this basis, the concerns were assessed as unsubstantiated with respect to Lonza's current compliance obligations, and the case is closed.

In accordance with our internal policy, Corp 73 (Whistleblower and Non Retaliation Policy), this process is kept confidential to the fullest extent possible. Lonza does not tolerate any form of retaliation against employees who, in good faith, raise concerns or seek guidance. Lonza does, however, reserve the right to take appropriate action should reports be found to be made in bad faith.

Kind regards

E&C
